VOLUME XLIX.

NUMBER 14.

THEY have gotten back to serving the old-fashioned wine at diplomatic banquets at Washington. Well, they have eminently respectable precedent: the wedding feast at Cana, for instance.

LINNEUS Bulletin: "But the Kansas City Star didn't print Kansas as a 'black' state on a white map when some of her male citizens tarred a woman school teacher. The Marietta mob and the Kansas mob look very much alike—and both started in on their jobs with smug self-satisfaction, and a wrong standard of morals."

OUR Jackies, it appears, do not take to pajamas—underwear. They do like their grog, however. In both instances their disagreement with the orders of the Naval Department is hearty and general. In the outcome the break seems to be about even: the Jackies go "dry" and the Department has some 20,000 pajamas in sequestration.

THE "dry" law of Oregon denies the right to its citizens to import liquor from other States, "except for sacramental purposes." The recipient is required to make oath to that effect. Is there no Oregonian public-spirited enough to test the constitutionality of the statute? Surely, like Bill Arp's bill against a neighbor "for three wells he didn't dig," it would be judicially set aside on the ground of "ridiculum absurdum."

THE St. Louis Republic is right in its contention that peace without disarmament will mean nothing more than a short-lived truce to the slaughter and destruction now desolating Europe. A treaty not recognizing this truth, however solemnly formulated and signed, will be a mere scrap of paper, to be torn into pieces and scattered to the winds upon the first fancied offense or provocation. How often does training for war lead to war!

SUPPOSING the Supreme Court upholds Barker's first ruling in regard to certain "extraordinary" revenues? "Where will he be at?" In as absurd and hopeless a position as the legendary individual who first crawled into a hole and then pulled the hole in after him. Mr. Barker ought not, until after careful and painstaking observation, have declared the horse to be seventeen feet high; but when once he had said it he ought to have stuck to it until actual measurement by rule had shown him to be in error. "Yes" yesterday and "No" to-day by accredited authority works confusion in the public mind.

DIED at St. Louis, Mo., in St. Luke's Hospital, Saturday, September 4, 1915, Judge John C. Brown, aged 55 years. Deceased was Presiding Judge of the State Supreme Court, and the term for which he was elected would have expired in 1920. Born to the common walk of life, with rural surroundings, he owed his success to personal worth, self-cultivated intelligence and untiring industry. Of congenial temperament and courteous deportment, his friends were legion, and he goes to his long home regretted by all who knew him. I extend sincere sympathy to the sorrowing relatives whose one consoling thought is that he died as had lived—honored in the love and respect of his fellow citizens.

THE State Board of Agriculture at Columbia, under date of September 4, gives estimates of the various crops for 1916. The report is tempered with these sensible suggestions: "So unusual has been the season now approaching its close and so varied are crop conditions, it was never more difficult to report with reasonable certainty nor to estimate with any degree of accuracy the final outcome of Missouri crops. However, there is nothing to indicate that it will be necessary to radically revise any preliminary figures on yields. This is due in part to the fact that in all early estimates due allowance is always made by the Missouri Board of Agriculture for probable and usual deterioration, rather than assuming that perfect conditions are to follow. The figures thus represent the probable, rather than the greatest possible yields."

TO THOSE of my country Republican contemporaries who take delight in sneering at the President's efforts to preserve peace without loss to the country's prestige and honor, I commend the following from last Friday's Globe-Democrat. It is an honest, patriotic, manly tribute to a deserving official:

The official notice given to Secretary Lansing yesterday by Ambassador Bernstorff marks, it may be believed, the beginning of the end of our difficulties with Germany. We have contended from the first for the recognition of certain principles involving rights which we held to be inalienable. These principles have now been officially accepted by Germany. That this is a victory, a great victory, for the United States, for the American people, and for President Wilson, cannot be disputed. We could very easily have been drawn into a war over this matter. All the elements of a configuration were present and it needed but the touching of a match to set the countries aflame. That the match was not struck is largely due to the calm, deliberate course of the president. Firmly, courageously and skillfully he upheld the cause of humanity, and the cause of humanity, and he won, as he deserved to win. For right was on his side. There was never for a moment a doubt of that in the minds of the people of this country. We opposed the German method of submarine warfare not from selfish interests, but because it was wrong in principle, a wrong against civilization, a violation not merely of our rights, but of human rights, the rights of all people, the rights of Germany herself. And Germany will one day thank us.

I was down over the washout on the Iron Mountain Railroad between Piedmont and the Bluff. I never saw such a destruction to the farmers; not a stack of hay left. Several had not threshed their wheat and lost all. The road is washed for miles. They had teams scraping up dirt and gravel on the road bed and the telegraph poles are washed out for miles. They are using rails lying on the ground to run the trains. Twenty-two telegraph men are putting in new poles and wires. They are running gravel trains night and day at Mill Springs. Business is at a stand still. Chas. Carle, a saw mill man, has only the engine and boiler left. One man had his wheat shocked near the river—it took it all except 3 shocks, so he threw them in and said they just as well take it all.

We had two wrecks last night—Saturday. One at Annapolis and one at Des Arc.

We had a sad death here Saturday night. Mrs. Oll Stevenson, nee May Hickman, of Des Arc. She will be buried at Des Arc Sunday evening. Her obituary will appear next week.

Marshall Stevenson, brother of the Stevenson Bros. at Des Arc, was married Sunday to Miss Alpha Arnold of Brunot, Mo.

We have completed the bridge to the cemetery here, also putting in iron gates with cobblestone posts. There are a few who have not paid a cent on the grave yard expenses which will amount to over $30. So please remit a small amount at once. Remember you have dear ones lying there and you should help to keep the cemetery in good condition.

I was talking to a traveling man at Bob Gladden's Hotel at Williamsville last week and we commenced talking about the Merrimack River. He said, "10 years ago myself and cousin were sitting on the bank of the Merrimack dressed in a bathing suit. Two giddy girls came floating down in a boat. They struck another boat and both were thrown out. We saved them; the one I saved is my wife to-day."

If not sold by druggists, it can be sent by mail on receipt of $1. One small bottle is two months' treatment and seldom fails to perfect a cure. Send testimonials from this and other States. Dr. E. W. Hall, 208 Olive Street, St. Louis, Mo. Sold by druggists.—Adv.
